Nan covers an area of 11,472.07 square kilometres, is a frontier town of the eastern Lanna Kingdom with an abundance and mixture of cultures from the high mountain ranges to the plain. The town was as ancient as the Sukhothai Kingdom and was under the continuous ruling of 64 kings. It was previously called "Nanthaburi" or "Woranakhon" and was established by Phraya Phukha approximately in the 13th century on a plain in Sila Phet sub-district or Pua district at present.

In 1359, Phraya Kanmueang received the Buddha's relics from Sukhothai and chose Doi Phu Phiang Chae Haeng to house them, as well as, decided to move the town to the foot of the mountain. In 1368, the Nan River changed its course; therefore, Phraya Phakong, son of Phraya Kanmueang, moved the town again to Ban Huai Khai, on the western side of the Nan River, the location of Nan province nowadays.

ATTRACTIONS

Amphoe Mueang Nan

Nan's Morning Market or Tang Chit Anuson Fresh Market (ตลาดเช้าเมืองน่าน หรือตลาดสดตั้งจิตอนุสรณ์)

Located on Kha Luang Road, Tambon Nai Wiang, this morning market with its vibrant atmosphere truly reflects Nan's indigenous lifestyle. It offers visitors to partake in the morning alms-giving and taste a traditional breakfast, such as, Nam Phrik Num (Northern Thai green chili paste), Sai Ua (pork sausages with herbs), Khao Niao Chin Ping (Thai grilled pork on skewers with sticky rice), various chili pastes, and Thai-style clear soup with congealed pork blood. Tourists staying in Amphoe Mueang often borrow or rent a bike from their hotel to visit this market. It's open daily from 05.00 a.m.-08.00 a.m.

Khum Chao Ratchabut (คุ้มเจ้าราชบุตร)

Located on Phakong Road, just behind Wat Phrathat Chang Kham Worawihan, the two-storey teak residence was founded in 1866 for Chao Noi Mahaphrom Na Nan (Chao Mahaphrom Surathada) and Chao Mae Srisopha. When he was appointed the 64th ruler of Nan, it was given to his son Chao Ratchabut

Wat Phrathat Chang Kham Worawihan

(Chao Mok Fa Na Nan). At present, Khum Chao Ratchabut belongs to Chao Somprathana and Chao Watsana Na Nan, Visitors will enjoy the history of the rulers of Nan and way of life, as well as, display of artefacts, old pictures, and rare species of plants. It is open daily 8.00 a.m.-4.00 p.m. Admission fee is 20 baht.

Wat Phrathat Chang Kham Worawihan

(วัดพระธาตุช้างค้ำวรวิหาร) Located on Suriyaphong Road, opposite the Nan Municipality Office. It was previously called “Wat Luang” or “Wat Luang Klang Wiang”, constructed during the reign of Chao pu Khaeng in 1406. It is a royal temple within the compound of Nan town

The architectural characteristics of the temple reflect the influence of the Sukhothai arts such as the chedi in the Lankan style (a bell shape) whose base is surrounded by sculptures of the front half of elephants made of bricks and cement. Five elephant sculptures are on each side and one at every corner. It looks as though they use their back to support or “Kham” the chedi. Within the wihan, the main Buddha image is very beautiful and large. It was made of stucco, representing the Chiang Saen style of art and the skills of Nan craftsmanship. Beside the wihan is houses of the holy scriptures, inside the hall “Phra Phuttha Nanthaburi Si Sakkayamuni” is enshrined. It is a bronze Buddha image, with 65% pure gold, in the posture of forgiveness with a height of 145 centimetres. Open daily 06.00 a.m.-06.00 p.m.

Wat Phumin

Wat Phumin (วัดภูมินทร์) is a royal temple, located next to the Nan National Museum. In accordance with the Nan Chronicle, Phrachao Chettabut Phrommin, a Nan ruler, constructed the temple after he had governed Nan for 6 years in 1596. The mural paintings in the main assembly hall were painted the Buddhist Jataka stories. However, considering the depiction of the lifestyles of the people in town during that time, there are many interesting pictures such as

Yu Khuang Tradition of the Thai Lue people. Parents will allow the youngsters to meet at the courtyard outside their house during dusk, while the girl was spinning cotton or “Yu Khuang”. If the girl agreed to get married, the ceremony would be organised called “Ao Kham Pai Pong Kan” or meaning to become part of the same family.

Trades within the Community is a painting of the local or the hilltribe people doing “Poe” or carrying the merchandise from the forest on their heads and exchanging them with the town people.

The Pu Man-Ya Man Painting (Whispering) is honoured as the most beautiful one at Wat Phumin. There is a usage of red, blue, black, and dark brown colours similar to contemporary paintings.

The Lifestyle of the Nan people depicts a woman weaving with a local loom. Outside the traditional Thai house stands a small shelter where there are earthen water pots called “Ran Nam” Men in this painting have a traditional Thai hairstyle called Lak Chaeo or Mahatthai presenting the western influence combining with the local lifestyle of Nan.

Nan National Museum

The Foreigners presents those who came into Nan during the reign of King Rama V. Their hair and costume reflects the popular styles in Europe during that time.

The distinguishing point of this temple is its 4-portico building, the only one in Thailand which seems to be standing on the back of 2 Nagas. This building serves as the 3-in-1 ubosot, wihan and the main chedi. The east-west axis is a wihan, while the north-south one is the ubosot. The Royal Thai Government once printed the picture of Wat Phumin on the 1-Baht banknote during World War II. Moreover, the Ancient City in Samut Prakan has constructed a replica of this wihan as a display within its compound. It open daily 06.00 a.m.-06.00 p.m.

Nan National Museum (พิพิธภัณฑ์สถานแห่งชาติ น่าน) Located on Phakong Road, opposite Wat Phrathat Chang Kham, near Wat Phumin. It is a European style building which came to Thailand during the reign of King Rama V combining with the local architecture of Nan. It was originally “Ho Kham”, a palace and throne hall of Phrachao Suriyaphong Pharitdet, the last Feudal Lord of Nan. It was constructed in 1932 for the first city hall of Nan. Then, in 1974, the building was renovated into the Nan National Museum.

Natural light is used in the museum making the building well ventilated with windows on every side. Visitors will feel like walking at home rather than at the museum, creating pleasure during the visit and watching the display.

Wat Ming Mueang

The museum is divided into 2 floors. The lower one presents the lifestyles of various tribes in Nan, including major traditions and festivals such as the life extending ceremony, boat races, while the upper one displays the artefacts of various periods discovered in Nan since the pre-historic time until the period of the Nan rulers. The important piece is the black elephant tusk, the sacred and valuable object of Nan. It is the left-side one with a length of 94 centimetres, a circumference of 47 centimetres, and a weight of 18 kilogrammes. The tusk was given to Nan during the period of the 5th Nan ruler, Phraya Kanmueang. Other exhibits include the glazed ceramics, aged around the 16th century from Bo Suak Kiln Site, Mueang Nan district, the Buddha Image in Subduing Mara Posture, a Lanna art which reflects the influence of the myanmar style of art during the 20th century, and Phan Phrasi Footed Tray and Enamelled Silverware which formed the paraphernalia of the last ruler of Nan. The museum is open Wednesday-Sunday 09.00 a.m.-04.00 p.m. (closed on Monday-Tuesday). Admission fee is 100 baht. For more information, Tel. 0 5477 2777 www.finearts.go.th/nanmuseum

The Black Elephant Tusk

Wat Suan Tan (วัดสวนตาล) Located on Maha Yot Road, was constructed by Phranang Pathumwadi in 1412. The chedi is beautiful and there are arched gates at 4 directions at the lower floor of the construction. Within the image hall is enshrined a significant Buddha image, Phrachao Thongthip. Phrachao Tilokkarat of Chiang Mai had the image cast in 1450. It is a grand bronze Buddha image in Subduing Mara posture. The width at its lap is 120 inches, with a height of 172 inches and weight 2,000 kilograms. During the Songkran festival, the ceremony to pay respect and pour water on the image is organised every year. It is open daily from 06.00 a.m.-06.00 p.m.

Wat Ming Mueang (วัดมิ่งเมือง) Located on Suriyaphong Road. It was constructed in 1857. Its distinguishing point is the stucco reliefs on the outer wall of the ubosot, presenting the skill of the Chiang Saen craftsmen. The patterns are very exquisite. Within the ubosot are mural paintings depicting the lifestyles of the Nan people. Moreover, within the compound of the temple stands the city pillar in a cruciform-plan pavilion at its front. The city pillar is 3 metres high. Its base is decorated with engraved and gilded wooden design. The top of the pillar was engraved into 4 faces of the Brahma God, representing Phrom Wi-han (Brahmavihara 4)-the four sublime states of mind; namely, Metta-kindness, Karuna-compassion, Mudita-sympathy, and Upekkha-equanimity. It is open daily 06.00 a.m.-06.00 p.m.

Wat Phra Koet (วัดพระเกิด) Located in Tambon Nai Wiang. It is one of Nan's oldest temples presumably built in 1827 by Thoeng immigrants from Chiang Rai, who migrated to Nan in 1786. According to the stone inscription No. 72, this temple was probably built after Wat Phra Koet Khongkharam located in Amphoe Thoeng of Chiang Rai province. The wihan or image hall enshrines the much revered Phuttha Sarira Khruem Khlang. Within the temple compound, visitors will also find the community museum of Ban Phra Koet, which was renovated from an abbot's wooden residence by using old wood around the temple. It houses artefacts (collection of Khrua In Phong) and other interesting donated objects from the community. The museum comprises 3 main parts: an exhibition area, Buddhist room, and folk wisdom room. Visitors will find some rare items; such as, gilded black lacquer scripture boxes, Cho Fa (hornlike gable finial), Lanna alphabets, old Buddha images, etc. It is open on Thursday to Tuesday (closed on Wednesday) during 9.00 a.m.-4.30 p.m. A group visit must contact in advance, Tel. 08 1882 3188, 08 9434 4889

Hong Chao Fong Kham (โฮงเจ้าฟองคำ)

Located behind Wat Phra Koet, this two centuries-old teak wood residence in the Lanna style belongs to Chao Fong Kham, who inherited it from Chao Si Bun Ma, Nan's royal bloodline. The residence comprises 3 wooden buildings connected by balconies. This traditional Thai house is joined together by a unique wood jointing technique, in which nails are not applied at all. Visitors can go upstairs and see daily utensils in each separate room; such as, the bedroom, Buddhist prayer room, living room, and kitchen. While downstairs functions as a learning centre for the traditional weaving process in which visitors will learn threading, natural dyes, and tailoring.

It is open on Wednesday-Sunday (and public holidays that fall on a Monday and Tuesday) during 9.00 am.-5.00 pm., Tel. 0 5471 0537, 09 8560 6988.

Wat Phaya Wat

Wildside Art Gallery (หอศิลป์พิงพุกษ์) was materialised by Khun Suradet Kalasen in 2003. The interesting products are exhibited such as;

Old-style Kitchen (ครัวมะเก่าเตาไฟโบราณ) Located at the back of the house, on the left corner of an empty space adjacent the neighbour's fence, this small hut houses a collection of household utensils from the grandparents' period.

Tie-dyeing Fabric (ผ้ามัดย้อมทำมือ) Dying natural fabric with organic ingredients and colours is a great way to spend the weekend for art and craft enthusiasts. These products make great souvenirs. The Wildside Art Gallery is open daily during 08.00 a.m.-04.00 p.m. a group visit must contact in advance.

The Wildside Art Gallery is located in Soi 3, the second building on the right. It is open on Saturday-Sunday during 08.00 a.m.-05.00 p.m., Tel. 08 9559 7815, 08 1980 6470.

Wat Phaya Wat (วัดพญาวัด) Located at Ban Phaya Wat, Tambon Du Tai. In the past, the location of the temple was the centre of Nan when the town was moved from Phra Borommathat Chae Haeng to the western bank of the Nan River. The chedi was constructed of laterite during the period of Phranang Chammathewi. Its characteristics are similar to the Ku Kut Chedi of Lamphun. The square chedi comprises 5 tiers with niches. In the niches on each tier are standing Buddha images which were influenced by the Sukhothai style of art, similar to those discovered at the chedi of Wat Mahathat in Sukhothai province. The top of the niche was made of bricks into an arch, the construction pattern during the reign of Phrachao Tilokkarat of Chiang Mai town, presenting that the renovation was taken place during that period when the influence of Chiang Mai art had already replaced the Sukhothai one. Within the ordination hall is enshrined "Phrachao Fon Saen Ha" or "Phrachao Sai Fon", which the Nan people once took in the procession asking for rain. Moreover, there is a sermon pulpit engraved by the local Nan craftsmen. It is considered as the oldest one made by the locals and assumed to have been constructed during the reign of Chao Attha Warapanyo around the late 18th-early 19th century. Open daily from 07.00 a.m.-05.00 p.m.

Wildside Art Gallery

Wat Phrathat Khao Noi

To get there: From Mueang Nan district, take Highway No. 101, crossing the Mueang Nan bridge, then turn right into Highway No. 1025 for 300 metres, the temple will be on the left.

Wat Phrathat Khao Noi (วัดพระธาตุเขาน้อย)

Located in Tambon Du Tai. The Buddha relic is enshrined in the chedi on the summit of Khao Noi on the western side of Nan town. It was constructed during the reign of Chaopu Khaeng in 1487. The Phrathat chedi is made of bricks and cement reflecting a combination of Myanmar and Lanna arts, contains the Lord Buddha's hair. From Wat Phrathat Khao Noi, the surrounding scenery of Nan can be seen.

Nan Riverside Art Gallery

At present, the viewpoint spot is “Phra Phuttha Maha Udom Mongkhon Nanthaburi Si Nan”, a 9 metre Buddha image in the giving blessing posture on a lotus base. The head finial of the image was made of gold with a total weight of 27 Baht. It was cast on the auspicious occasion of His Majesty the King’s 6th Cycle Birthday Anniversary on 5 December, 1999. The temple is open daily 06.00 a.m.-06.00 p.m., Tel. 0 5477 2622

To get there: From Mueang Nan district, take Highway No. 101, crossing the Mueang Nan bridge, then turn right into Highway No. 1025 for 2 kilometres.

Nan Riverside Art Gallery (หอศิลป์ริมน่าน)

Located at No. 122 Nan-Thung Chang Route (Km. 20), this gallery operates under Nan’s own artist, Mr. Winai Prabripoo. It occupies an area of 13 rai and comprises an exhibition hall, studios, and guest house. The art gallery aims to showcase the unique work of contemporary Thai artists. Initially, it was a semi-permanent exhibition throughout the year by Mr. Winai himself in which almost 200 paintings and sculptures were displayed. In addition, the Nan Riverside Art Gallery annually serves as an art and literature youth camp, which is an ideal ground for learning art and a conservation centre.

The Gallery is open on Wednesday-Monday and public holidays. (closed on Tuesday) during 10.00 a.m.-05.30 p.m. Admission fee is 20 baht for adults and free for childrens.

Tham Pha Tup Forest Park (วนอุทยานถ้ำผาทูป) Interesting Attractions:

Nature Study Route (เส้นทางศึกษาธรรมชาติ)

There are various kinds of plants that should be studied and rarely seen such as Chan Pha-Dracaena spp. and Ueang Phueng-Dendrobium lindleyi Steud. which are usually in bloom during the end of the rainy season.

Tham Phra (ถ้ำพระ) There is a chimney letting in the breeze and the sunshine passing through and beautiful stalactites in the cave. It is located 200 metres from the Office of the Forest Park.

Tham Bo Namthip (ถ้ำบ่อน้ำทิพย์) At a side of the cave wall are stalactites and a deep tunnel where an oval basin containing water throughout the year is located. The water is considered as sacred and the symbol of this cave.

Visitors have to climb up the rocky cliff all the way to the cave which is 1,200 metres from the Office of the Forest Park. During the rainy season, there is water in the cave making it not accessible.

Tham Khon (ถ้ำขนอน) is a cave with a long shape similar to a log. The cave houses a splendour of stalagmites and stalactites. At the front of the cave entrance stands a cliff. It is suitable for relaxation and admiring the view of the Nan Swamp.

Tham Chedi Kaeo (ถ้ำเจดีย์แก้ว) is a small cave whose front houses a rock similar to a chedi.

The Viewpoint (จุดชมวิว) At this spot the surrounding scenery and Mueang Nan district can be clearly seen. It is 1 kilometre from the Office of the Forest Park or takes 2 hours for a round trip on foot.

Activities: On the full moon day of the fifth lunar month (of the North) the Ban Pha Tup people usually organise a ceremony of gilding the Buddha image of Khao Tham Phra, called "Tham Pha Tup Fair". In the morning, there is a ceremony of giving alms to the monks, while during the day are music and performances of students from Ban Pha Tup School. The fair takes place annually at the cave. The forestry office, Tel. 06 2985 4709, 08 1287 8202.

Ban Bo Suak Kiln Site and Glazed Ceramics

(แหล่งเตาเผาโบราณและเครื่องเคลือบบ้านบ่อสุก)

Mu 10, Tambon Suak, 17 kilometres from the centre of town. It is assumed that the production of the Bo Suak ceramics was originated and developed during the reign of Phraya Phonlathep Ruechai (1528-1559) which was the glorious period of Nan.

The "Community Archaeological Site" is located at Ban Bo Suak Phatthana, The location where the kilns were discovered in October 1999 was by the river within the area of the residence of Police Sergeant Major Manat and Khun Sunan Tikham. The kilns face the river for the convenience of transportation. Inside is a large firing chamber where a person can enter. The kilns are sloped and possess a chimney on the top. Two ancient kilns have been reconstructed and sheltered within a permanent building. At the basement of Pol. Sgt.Maj. Manat's house is an exhibition of artefacts from the kilns. Open daily 07.00 a.m.-05.00 p.m for more information, please contact Nan municipality information tourism center, Tel. 0 5475 1169, 08 4617 1542

Amphoe Bo Kluea

The Rock Salt Pits (บ่อเกลือสินเธาว์) It is hard to believe that an area on the mountain summit reaching up to the cloud in Bo Kluea district has been an important salt production venue from ancient times. Nan has been a large exporting source of rock salt in the north. Salt was a product exchanging with other things that the community could not produce by themselves. The exchange was conducted with the caravan of the Haw People from Yunnan, Guangxi and other provinces in China by taking the route from Xishuangbanna, Shan State to Chiang Rai, Chiang Mai, Nan, Mueang Sa (Wiang Sa District nowadays) and Phrae, as well as, the Thai Khoen sellers from Keng Tung and the Thai Lue cow traders from Tha Wang Pha district. In the past, rulers in the Northern administrative circle got a part from the salt levy apart from other fees and fines. Phraya Tilokkarat of Chiang Mai also led the troops to invade Nan with an aim to possess the salt pits which were a significant military factor during that time.

There are 2 important salt production venues in Nan. The first one is in the Wa River watershed area, consisting of 2 large pits, while the second one is at the Nan River watershed area, where there are 5 large pits and many tiny ones. At present, the locals still boil the salt by using the traditional method. Saline water will be brought from the pits and pass along the bamboo sticks to the storage ponds. Then, it will be boiled in large woks until the water evaporates, leaving only the dry salt. The salt will be put into bags and sold in front of the houses. Salt of Nan does not contain iodine like that from the sea. Therefore, iodine has to be added before offering to consumers.

The Rock Salt Pits

The Rock Salt Pits usually closed during Buddhist Lent due to the rainy season. It is open daily from 08.00 a.m.-05.00 p.m. Contact Bo Kluea Tai SAO. Tel. 0 5477 8057, 0 5471 8935.

Amphoe Chiang Klang

Wat Nong Daeng (วัดหนองแดง) in Puea sub-district was constructed in 1787 by the Thai Lue and Thai Phuan people. The main Buddha image was cast by Khruba Sithikan.

Within the compound of the temple is a large shady terrace. The Chofa—gable finial decoration of a Buddhist temple's roof—is engraved into the sculpture of Nok Hatsadiling (Hastilinga)—a mythical bird in the literature whose tip of the beak is an elephant's trunk. The Thai Lue people believe that it is a high-ranked animal from heaven. At the same time, the eaves boards are embellished with wooden fretwork, the unique ones of the Thai Lue people. The Buddha image is enshrined on the Chukkachi base—a masonry base of intertwined Nagas, called “Naga Throne”. It has been believed that the Naga is a symbol of gracefulness, goodness, and a protector of Buddhism.

To get there: From Chiang Klang district, take Highway No. 1080 to Ban Nong Daeng for 2 kilometres, the temple is on the left hand side.

Amphoe Na Noi

Sao Din Na Noi or Hom Chom and Khok Suea (เสาดินนาน้อย (ฮ่อมจ้อม) และคอกเสือ)

is located in Chiang Kong Sub-district. It is a soil formation into strange shapes, similar to the "Phae Mueang Phi" of Phrae Province. From geological evidence, it appears that Sao Din Na Noi occurred from the movement of the earth's crust during the late Tertiary Period and the natural erosion of water and wind. Geologists assume that it might be aged during 10,000-30,000 years and was once the bottom of the sea. There have been discoveries of stone bangles and ancient axes at this place, which are currently preserved at the Nan National Museum. It reflects that this area was once a habitation place of human beings in the Palaeolithic Age.

To get there: From the Ban Mai T-junction in Na Noi district, take Highway No. 1083 for approximately 6 kilometres. The entrance of Sao Din Na Noi on the right hand side.

Si Nan National Park (อุทยานแห่งชาติศรีน่าน)

covers an area of approximately 934 square kilometres in Wiang Sa, Na Noi and Na Muen districts. The undulating mountain ranges line up from the north to the south, paralleling on both the western and eastern sides. They divide the area into the west and the east. There is a viewpoint spot where the scenery of the mountain ranges within the National Park and the curving Nan River can be clearly seen. The Nan River flows through the National Park to Pak Nai Fisherman Village. The forests in the park are mostly mixed deciduous ones. Therefore, during February, there is usually a beautiful change of the colours of the shedding forests.

Interesting Attractions in the National Park are as follows:

Pha Chu (ผาऊ) in winter, the sea of fog can be admired from the top of the cliff. When the fog is disappearing, the Nan River curving at the end of the forest can be seen. It is also a spot to view the sunrise. The distance to the spot is approximately 2 kilometres. The way near the summit is full of pointed rocks; therefore, a pair of sneakers should be prepared for the convenience of climbing. It takes 1 hour for a round trip. Those interested in climbing up to the summit of the cliff have to contact the park official.

According to legend, Chao Ueang Phueng, the lover of Chao Chan Pha had to get married to Chao Chuang, making Chao Ueang Phueng upset for not being able to marry the man she loved. Therefore, she decided to commit suicide by jumping off the cliff. Chao Chan Pha later followed her and found out about her death. Chao Chan Pha; therefore, killed himself by jumping off the cliff as well. The bodies of Chao Chan Pha and Chao Ueang Phueng were next to each other. At the same time, Chao Chuang saw the woman he loved jumping off the cliff. He was very sad and decided to follow her as well. However, his body hurtled away. With the true love between Chao Ueang Phueng and Chao Chan Pha, in the next life, Chao Ueang Phueng was born as an orchid hanging under the Chan Pha Tree-Dracaena loureiri Gapnep, while Chao Chuang was born into a pine tree at the spot of his death. (Chuang in northern dialect means a pine tree, while “Ueang Phueng” refers to an orchid). This cliff has been called “Pha Chu” or “the lovers’ cliff” since then.

Pha Hua Sing (ผาหัวสิงห์) and Doi Samoe Dao (ดอยเสมอดาว) Located at Km. 16, the Na Noi-Pang Hai route. It is a viewpoint spot on the summit of the high cliff from which the 360° of scenery can be admired. At the spot, a wide terrace suitable for relaxation, star observation and sunset viewing, is located. Visitors who would like to go to Pha Hua Sing (meaning a cliff with a strange shape similar to the head of a lion) will have to contact an official from the National Park. The total distance is 2 kilometres. Along the way, the Chan Pha Tree-Dracaena loureiri Gagnep, the unique tree will be seen. Moreover, when the sky is clear, Na Noi and Wieng Sa districts, as well as, the Nan River can be viewed from the cliff.

Kaeng Luang (แก่งหลวง) is 35 kilometres from Na Noi district. The entrance route to Kaeng Luang is very difficult to travel because there are natural islets and cataracts caused by the stream of the Nan River, flowing pass the rocks scattered in the river. During the season of a rushing torrent, there are echoes of water smashing against the rocks, while during the dry season, rocks and white sandy beaches along the Nan River can be seen. Swimming can be done during the dry season in April only because during the rainy season, the stream will be vigorous and dangerous.

Amphoe Phu Phiang

Wat Phrathat Chae Haeng (วัดพระธาตุแช่แห้ง)

Located in Muang Tuet sub-district, is a sacred place of worship, situated on a mound on the eastern side of the Nan River, at the former centre of the Nan town after moving from Pua town. The Temple was constructed during the rule of Chao Phraya Kanmueang (the Feudal Lord of Nan during 1326-1359) as an enshrining venue of 7 Buddha relics, silver and golden votive tablets presented by King Maha Thammaracha Lithai on the occasion that Chao Phraya Kanmueang assisted in the construction of Wat Luang Aphai (Wat Pa Mamuang in Sukhothai province at present) in 1354.

It features a chedi in a bell shape. The pattern of Phrathat Chae Haeng is assumed to have been influenced by the chedi of Phrathat Hariphunchai. It is plated with a combination of brass and copper. The staircase up to the Phrathat is in a Naga shape, while the gable above the entrance gate to the wihan is the stucco relief depicting intertwined Nagas, the unique characteristic of Nan fine arts.

Phra Borommathat Chae Haeng represents the Year of the Rabbit. Lanna people believe that travelling to pay respect to the Phrathat of their Year of Birth or “Chu That” would reap them great results. Tourists can visit the temple everyday from 06.00 a.m.-06.00 p.m. Tel. 0 5475 1846, 08 9432 7801

To get there: from Mueang Nan district, cross the Pattana Pak Nuea Bridge and go along Highway No. 1168 (Nan-Mae Charim route) for 3 kilometres.

Wat Phrathat Beng Sakat

Amphoe Pua

Wat Phrathat Beng Sakat (วัดพระธาตุเบ็งสกัด)

is situated at Mu 5 Ban Kaem, Woranakhon sub-district. Its location is assumed to have been an area where Phraya Phukha had the ancient Pua town or Woranakhon town constructed to be governed by Chao Khunfong, his adopted son. At present, it is the Pua District Office. The word “Beng Sakat” means a miracle at a soil pit. When putting a wooden stick into the pit, the stick will be torn into pieces as though something bites it off. Moreover, a light appeared from the pit during the celebration.

The Phrathat and wihan-assembly hall-were completed in 1283. Inside the chedi is enshrined the Lord Buddha relics which is considered as the centre of faith of the community. This Phrathat also represents the architecture of the Nan craftsmen. It is located on a high rise where a village below can be seen. Its surroundings is a grove, while its back side is a mountain. During the rainy season, visitors will be able to see the green rice fields at the villages below.

The architectural characteristic of the assembly hall is its roof which is very sloping and low, presenting the Thai Lue local style of art or called “Tia Chae” shape. The hall is covered with 2 tiers of 2 series of single roof, made of golden teakwood. The entrance gate represents the Lan Chang art style. Moreover, the Phra Kaeo image, whose hair was in gold, was enshrined in the Phrathat. The main Buddha image is in the local art style, on a masonry base known as Chukkachi base. Mirrors are attached at the back of the image according to the Thai Lue belief, while the engraved wooden doors are the local Nan art style.

To get there: The temple is 500 metres from Pua market. The entrance opposite with Woranakhon School.

Ton Dik Diam (ต้นดักเดียม) is at Wat Prang.

It is a special characteristic tree, every time it is touched, its leaves will shake. It has many local names such as Di Diam, Dip Diam, and Dik Doi. It can also be used as a medical herb.

Wat Ton Laeng (วัดต้นแหลง) Located at Mu 2,

Tambon Thai Watthana. Wat Ton Laeng is an ancient Thai Lanna temple, It is assumed to have been constructed in 1584. The assembly hall’s roof is very sloping and low with 3 tiers. It possesses the similar characteristics as the original houses of the Thai Lue people in Xishuangbanna. The walls are pierced into small windows to prevent the coldness. The entrance is facing towards the east so that the first sunlight of the day would shine on the main Buddha image and the Buddhist people who come into the hall would pay attention to the main image, as well. It also creates a serene atmosphere suitable for meditation.

To get there: From Highway No. 101 Pua district, notice the Kasikorn Bank, Pua District Branch, and turn left into the small path (soi) prior to the bank. Go straight on until reaching the roundabout and turn right for 2 kilometres.

The Old Wihan of Tai Lue Style (วิหารเก่าไทลื้อ วัดร้องแง) has been registered by the Nan Provincial Cultural Council as one of the oldest image halls of the province. The wihan of Wat Rong Ngae was built back in 1767. It has undergone extensive renovation by restoring the original features of the wooden shingle roof. The wihan houses some of the significant features, which are also found in Wat Nong Bua of Amphoe Tha Wang Pha; such as, the stepped candle-holder, preaching pulpit, and mural paintings. The way beams are placed over the columns in this temple is unique and known as a “Ma Tang Mai” roof structure.

To get there: From Pua district, take Highway No. 1081 for 1.5 kilometres. Then turn left into the small path for 500 metres.

Doi Phu Kha National Park (อุทยานแห่งชาติ ดอยภูคา) covers a total area approximately 1,704 square kilometres. The mountains of Doi Phu Kha are high, complex, and undulating. They are a part of the end of the Himalaya. Phu Kha summit is the highest in Nan, with a height of 1,980 metres above sea level

Interesting Attractions in the Park are as follows:

Chomphu Phu Kha (ชมพู่ภูคา) Doi Phu Kha is considered as the last home of Chomphu Phu Kha- Bretschneidera sinensis Hemsl. –a Himalayan plant. Dr. Thawatchai Santisuk, a botanist of the Royal Forest Department was the first one who discovered this plant in the Doi Phu Kha National Park in February 1989.

Doi Phu Kha National Park

During February of every year, Chomphu Phu Kha will be in bloom. Its blossom will be in pink bunches at the end of each branch with a length of 30-35 centimetres. When they are in full bloom, they become beautiful bunches. Chomphu Phu Kha was discovered in the valleys in Yunnan, southern China, and in the north of Vietnam. Later, there has been no further report on the discovery of this kind of plant. The hill evergreen forest of Doi Phu Kha, therefore, might be the last origin of Chomphu Phu Kha, one of the rare and nearly extinct plant species of the world. The viewpoint spot to admire these trees, which is the most easily accessible, is along the road 5 kilometres from the Office of the National Park.

Chomphu Phu Kha Nature Study Route (เส้นทางศึกษาธรรมชาติชมพูกา) comprises 2 routes: the big circle and the small one. Wat Nong Bua (วัดหนองบัว) is at Nong Bua village, Pa Kha sub-district. Wat Nong Bua is an ancient temple. From the story of the elderly in the village, it can be assumed that this temple of the Thai Lue was constructed in 1862 (during the reign of King Rama IV).

The mural paintings on the wall of the ordination hall depict the story of Panyasa Jataka, a past life of the Lord Buddha. They are assumed to have been created by “Thit Buaphan”, a Lao Phuan painter. Thit Buaphan was taken from Phuan Town in Luang Prabang by the father of Khruba Luang Su, Nai Thep-a soldier of Chao Anantayot (the ruler of Nan during 1852–1891). Moreover, the painting was assisted by Nai Thep and Phra Saen Phichit until its completion. Furthermore, there are pictures of steamboats and bayonets which came into Thailand during the reign of King Rama IV to King Rama V. The mural paintings at Wat Nong Bua have well reflected the lifestyles of the locals during that period, especially the ones presenting the pictures of women wearing a tube skirt with the Nam Lai design or that made of a splendid Tin Chok fabric. These paintings can be considered possessing an artistic value. Their perfection is close to those displayed on the wall of Wat Phumin in Mueang Nan District. Apart from the murals, at the base of the main Buddha image is enshrined many tiny Buddha images in the Lanna style, as well as, a Butsabok-movable pavilion with a pointed roof, which has lasted since the Lanna period. Moreover, a replica of a Thai Lue house and occupational tools are on display.

Amphoe Thung Chang

Thung Chang Sacrificial Monument and Thung Chang Military Museum (อนุสรณ์สถานวีรกรรม พลเรือน ตำรวจ ทหาร และ พิพิธภัณฑสถานทุ่งช้าง)

were constructed to commemorate the heroes who sacrificed their life for the country. Their Majesties the King and the Queen attended and conducted the opening ceremony, as well as, placed the wreaths at the monument on 10 February, 1976. Therefore, this date of every year is considered the memorial day when wreaths have been presented and a merit making ceremony has been organised for the heroes up until at present. Moreover, the Thung Chang Military Museum displays military weapons for further knowledge and study.

To get there: The monument is located on Highway No.101, Nan–Thung Chang Route, at Km. 85. Open daily from 08.30 a.m.–04.00 p.m. for more information Tel. 0 5471 3324, 0 5479 5121

Ban Mani Phruek Security Development Project (โครงการพัฒนาเพื่อความมั่นคง (พมพ.) บ้านมณีพฤกษ์)

is an agro-tourism attraction where there is an experimental project for growing temperate plants. Moreover, there is Siao Khao or mountain ebony tree–Bauhinia variegata, the symbolic flower of the province, and Nang Phaya Suea Khrong–Prunus cerasoides D.Don. Inside the project are the Hmong and Lua hilltribe villages. What is interesting is that the project is located on the Doi Phu Kha Mountain Range, where many groups of Chomphu Phu Kha–Bretschneidera sinensis Hemsl, are standing. However, the ones in perfect condition and location for visitors to pay a visit is 3-4 kilometres from the Tourist Information Centre. There is transportation to its entrance. Then, visitors have to walk further for 30 metres.

Interesting Attractions within Ban Mani Phruek are as follows:

Tham Pha Phueng (ถ้ำผาผึ้ง) is a cave on the way to Mani Phruek 1 Village, 1 kilometre from the Office of the Security Development Project and 100 metres from the road. It is an evergreen forest, with a lot of Tao Rang–fishtail palms standing. The entrance of the cave is 40 metres wide and 20 metres high. Visitors have to descend for 25 metres to the cave floor. The first part of the cave is a spacious hall with a height of 20 metres with water dropping from the ceiling and creating stone layers, similar to the waterfall continuously running down.

Doi Pha Phueng

Moreover, there are beautiful stalactites. The distance to the deepest part of the cave is 400 metres. There is still air for breathing. At the end of the cave is a channel with a width of 20-30 centimetres. Underneath the channel, visitors will be able to hear the sound of running water to the deeper part, creating a very strange phenomenon.

Doi Pha Phueng (ดอยผาผึ้ง) is situated in Mani Phruet 3 Village. It is a limestone mountain with a height of 1,600 metres above sea level. There is not many trees, but mostly a Ya Kha or lalang field. Its characteristics are similar to Doi Phu Wae, where the atmosphere of the sunrise and sunset can be admired. Moreover, the scenery of Bo Kluea district and the ridge of Doi Phu Wae and Doi Cho can be seen. From the entrance, visitors have to walk for 20 minutes along the shoulders of the mountains amidst the beautiful nature.

Phu Hua Lan Viewpoint Spot (จุดชมวิภูหัวล้าน) various districts can be viewed such as Chiang Klang, Thung Chang and Chaloen Phra Kiat districts. Tham Phu Hua Lan (ถ้ำภูหัวล้าน) was also a habitation site of Thai soldiers in the past, located near the Operational Base.

To get these: Take Highway No. 101 turn right into The Highway no. 1291, and then Take Highway No. 4017 the route to Mani Phruet Village The road is curving along the shoulder of the mountains. It is also a laterite road alternating with the asphalt one. A four-wheeled-drive vehicle in good condition is recommended. It takes 2 hours for the trip. Contact Tel.0816022731 Thung Chang District Agricultural Extension office. Tel. 0 5479 5109.

Amphoe Wiang Sa

Wat Bun Yuen (วัดบุญยืนพระอารามหลวง) Chao fa Road, Tambon Klang Wiang. Built in 1786 by Chao Fa Atthaworapanyo of the Chiang Khong Dynasty, the 55th ruler of Nan City, this 200-year-old royal temple is located right in the heart of Amphoe Wiang Sa, opposite the Wiang Sa Sub-district Municipality Office. Its significant features include a Lanna-style wihan, three-tiered roof, carved wooden door panels depicting guardian angels one of which is standing on a seven-headed elephant (also crafted by the afore-mentioned ruler), spectacular principal Buddha image in a standing posture, which gives the temple its name and is a vanishing point for the elaborate wihan's pillars, which are so large that it takes two people holding hands to surround each of them. It is open daily from 07.00 am.–05.00 pm. For more details, Tel. 0 5478 1872, 08 1111 1230

Historical Building (อาคารประวัติศาสตร์)

Formerly served as a district office, this old two-storey wooden building is situated on Chao Fa Road, just opposite Wat Bun Yuen. On 16 March, 1958, during a royal visit to the Northern provinces, His Majesty King Bhumibol Adulyadej granted the first public audience to the Northern Thai subjects from the front balcony of this building. It is currently the Office of the Wiang Sa Subdistrict Municipality and display pictures of that royal visit. ## EVENTS AND FESTIVALS

Phrathat Beng Sakat Fair (งานนมัสการพระธาตุเบ็งสกัด) is held on the full moon day in the 4th northern lunar month (around January) and firework festival as an offering to the Lord Buddha. at Pua district.

Hok Peng Wai Sa Mahathat Chae Haeng Fair (งานประเพณีทักเบ็งไห้วสามหาธาตุแช่แห้ง) is organised on the full moon day of the 6th northern lunar month which is the full moon day of the 4th central lunar month (around the end of February–March) at Phu Phiang district. In the fair, there is rocket lighting as an offering to the Lord Buddha.

Phrachao Thongthip Buddha Image Bathing Fair (งานประเพณีนมัสการสงฆ์พระเจ้าทองทิพย์) will be held at Wat Suan Tan, Mueang Nan, during the Songkran Festival on 12-15 April.

Phrathat Khao Noi Fair (งานประเพณีนมัสการพระธาตุเขาน้อย) is on the full moon day of the 8th northern lunar month or the full moon day of the 6th central lunar month (around May) at Mueang Nan district. There is a ceremony to pay respect to Phrathat Khao Noi and rocket lighting as an offering to the Lord Buddha.

Chomphu Phu Kha Fair (เทศกาลผ่อดอกชมพูภูคาบาน) at Pua District Office See the Bretschneidera sinensis Hemsl in bloom, held during February-March

Nan Traditional Boat Races (งานประเพณีแข่งเรือจังหวัดน่าน) has been passed on since 1936 when a boat race was organised in the ceremony to present robes to monks at the end of the Buddhist Lent until the royal Kathin ceremony at present during mid-October or at the beginning of November every year. The opening day of the boat races is the similar day of the Salakkaphat offering ceremony to the monks by drawing lots arranged by Wat Chang Kham Worawihan which is a royal temple. The Salakkaphat offering ceremony will be conducted prior to the race. Therefore, the Nan Traditional Boat Races is considered the tradition that goes along with the Tan Kuai Salak Ceremony of Wat Chang Kham until the present time. Later, the province also added the celebrating ceremony of the black ivory, a precious treasure of Nan province. Moreover, there is another boat racing event organised in Amphoe Wiang Sa during the Tan Kuai Salak Festival.

Nan Golden Tangerine and Red Cross Fair (งานเทศกาลส้มสีทองและงานกาชาดจังหวัดน่าน) at Nan Provincial Stadium is in December every year. In some years, it will be organised together with the Nan Quality Product Fair. Golden tangerine or Som Si Thong is a well-known agricultural crop of Nan. It is of a similar species to Som Khiao Wan—the green one—but possesses a beautiful golden skin with a nicer smell and taste. This is due to the temperature of this area with the 8°C difference during the day and night causing the “Carotenoid Pigments” in the skin to change from green into golden.

Interesting activities in the event are the contest of the golden tangerine procession, fair, exhibition, sales of handicrafts from various districts and from Mueang Hon–Hongsa of Lao PDR., local performances, and various forms of entertainment.

Tan Kuai Salak, Khua Tan or Khrua Than Festival (งานตานก้วยสลาก งานแห่คั่วตาน หรือครัวงาน) Than Salak or Kuai Salak is an ancient tradition that has been passed on since the time of the Buddha. For northern people, it is considered as a major merit making ceremony and unique among the locals. Monks who come to receive offerings will be chosen from drawing lots.

LOCAL PRODUCTS AND SOUVENIRS

LOCAL FOOD

Kai (ไค) is a water plant with long green leaf similar to human hair. It usually grows on submerged rocks in the Mekong River. It is bigger in size and longer than Tao (เทา), another similar species of plant growing in brooks, swamps, canals, and rice fields. However, the Nan people call the seaweed from the river “Kai” and “Tao”. Most of them are from the Nan River. Moreover, some are from the Wa River. They can well indicate the cleanliness of the water in the rivers. Available in winter, Kai are usually cooked into many dishes such as Kai soup, Ho Nueng Kai, and Kai Phui.

Kaeng Som Mueang (แกงส้มเมือง) is different from Kaeng Som—a sour-peppery soup of the Central Region with a sauce of non-dried ripe tamarind. Kaengsom of Nan is in yellow from curcuma. The paste put in the soup is a mixture of lemon grass, fresh goat peppers or guinea-peppers, shallots, and shrimp paste. Later, tomatoes, swamp morning glory, Phak Tamlueng, and Phak Kut—a kind of edible ferns - are added. Before the fish is cooked, put in hairy basil, and lime juice. Some might also put Som Poi-Acacia concinna-into the soup.

Golden Tangerine (ส้มสีทอง) or golden tangerines have been grown since 1925. Muen Rakam, a warder of the Nan Provincial Prison was the first person who grew this orange. This golden tangerine usually bears fruit from mid-December to early-January.

Nan Fa Black Grapes (องุ่นดำน้ำพันฟ้า) whose name was granted by Her Royal Highness Princess Galyani Vadhana, is a good kind of grape from Taiwan.

Mafai Chin (มะไฟจีน) or wampee originated from China. It is believed that the Chinese grew it in Nan around 80 years ago. In Thailand, this kind of fruit can be discovered in only Nan province. It can also be medicine for the respiratory system, making clear breathing as well as thirst-quenching. It is usually freshly eaten. When it is fully ripen, it possesses a sweet taste. Otherwise, it can be dried and preserved in syrup.

Tao (ต้าว) or Arenga pinnata (a kind of sugar palm whose leaf is similar to that of coconut, bears fruit in bunches with edible flesh of young nuts called Luk Chit in Thai. It can be preserved in syrup). These fruits can be easily found at friendly prices at “Kat Chao” or morning market at the fresh market of the municipality or the one prior to the entrance to Phrathat Khao Noi, and at “Kat Laeng” or evening market (starting at 3.00 p.m.) in front of the Thewarat Hotel. Local dishes of Nan are full of herbs, local vegetables and spices, especially Makhaen which is an ingredient of many dishes such as Lap–chicken salad with mint, Yam Chin Kai–spicy minced chicken salad, Kaeng Khanun - jackfruit soup, Kaeng Phakkat-pakchoi soup eaten with warm sticky rice. Many kinds of Nan dishes are similar to the general Lanna food such as Sai Ua–northern Thai spicy sausage, Namphrik Ong–spicy meat and tomato dip, and Kaeng Hangle–northern pork curry, while some are specifically local food and available in only some seasons.
